Passengers From Bocas del Toro Disbe lieve Report That Panama Has Fallen -Warships Will Prevent a Battle in the City - Indians Join Revolt.

NEW OBLEANS, Nov. 8 .- The steamer from Bocas del Toro, Colombia, brings the news of the defeat of the Government forces at Tumaco, near the Ecuadorian frontier. The revolutionists are reported to have captured 800 prisoners, 1,600 modern rifles, 200,000 rounds of ammunition, six cannon, one Gatling gun and one gunboat, the General Alban.

A large number of passengers from Bocas, Colon and Panama came on the steamer. They all express disbelief in the story of the capture of Panama, but say that the revolutionists were very strong in the neighborhood and only three miles from the town, and that the Government was apprehensive of an attack and had prepared for flight in case of defeat.

Their reason for not believing that Panama had been captured was that the revolutionists were not strong enough to among themselves. The foreign men-of-war lying at Panama, of which two are American, have warned both factions against any fighting in the town as dangerous to the foreign residents there and will prevent a severe battle. If there is to be a battle it must be fought outside of the town limits.

The revolutionists have occupied the high hills back of the cemetery at Panama and if they had cannon would command the town, but they are without cannon in that section and can do no bombarding.

The revolutionist forces are reported as steadily increasing in numbers. Victoriano Lorenzo, cacique of the Cocle Indians, has Lorenzo, cacique of the Cocle Indians, has thrown his fortunes with the revolution and taken 2,000 of his Indians with him, this being the first time that Indians have ever taken part in a Colombian revolution. The revolutionary government is arming them with rifles as fast as it can get them, and expects to place the entire force in the field. Recruits are also pouring in from Central America.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Reports received at the Navy Department from its representatives on the Isthmus of Panama show that everything was quiet on both sides of the Isthmus ten days ago. These reports are from Capt. Thomas Perry, commanding the battleship Iowa, at Panama, on the west coast, and Lieutenant-Commander Henry McCrea, commanding the gunboat Machias, at Colon, on the east coast. Capt. Perry says the activities of the Government and insurgent forces, recently reported, have subsided and there were no insurgent troops in the vicinity of Panama City. Tumaco, near the Ecuadorian border, he says, has fallen into the hands of the insurgents. Lieutenant-Commander McCrea's report tells of similar quiet conditions on surgents. Lieutenart-Commander McCrea's report tells of similar quiet conditions on the east side of the Isthmus. The Colom-bian gunboat Pinson made a round trip to Bocas del Toro and she reported all quiet

With Lieutenant-Commander McCrea's report is a letter to him from H. G. Prescott, assistant superintendent of the Panama Railroad Company, complaining over the doubling of commercial contributions of steamship lines to the Panama Government. Mr. McCrea does not mince words in dealing with this action of the authorities. He says:

in dealing with this action of the straits the local authorities have been reduced to raise funds, and am not surprised that the steamship companies have agreed to protest. If this path is once opened to collect the sinews of war, and no protests are made, there is no limit to the annoyances which will follow, and traffic over the railroad would be seriously interfered with. This resolution doubles the harbor duties, which are lumped together and called 'the commercial contribution.' TO MAKE IMPROVED FIREARMS SHOT THE SISTER SUPERIOR. Ordnance Factory to Be Built in Conne tion With Cramp's Shipyard.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Gen. Joseph Wheeler said this noon that Philadelphia was about to have the largest ordnance factory in the country, to be run in conwas about to have the largest ordnance factory in the country, to be run in connection with Cramp's shipyard, and that a revolution in the weapons used by army and navy was impending.

The company came here at the request of the Cramps. It controls an invention by which the waste gas generated by the discharge of a rifle or big gun is made to neutralize all recoil and in addition to eject the old shell and load and fire anew. The shotguns, rifles and 1, 2 and 3-inch guns have a speed of twenty-five shots each second and a penetrating power greater than any other gun known.

Gen. Wheeler will make his permanent residence in this city.

The new weapons are described as being so deadly that an army equipped with them could whip any in the world. Secret tests have been carried on by members of the United States. Navy, one of whom was Admiral Dewey, and five Generals of the united States. Navy, one of whom was Admiral Dewey, and five Generals of the army witnessed recent tests made at Newport, and they were amazed at the power of the guns. A test was recently made in the celliar of the Bourse Building in this city and in the presence of George Bartol, President of the Bourse, and C.H. Clark, Jr., of the banking firm of E.W. Clark & Co., one of the rifles sent builets at the rate of 25 a second into the coal bunkers. The company is to be capitalized at $5,000,000 and manufacture is to be started as soon as the plant can be erected.

be capitalized at $6,000,000 and manufacture is to be started as soon as the plant can be erected.

The inventor of the weapon is S. N. McClean of Cleveland, Ohio. He was so firmly convinced of the value of his invention that he feared some one else would reap the honor and reward if he allowed its qualities to become known to patent lawyers and so for four years he studied law, paying special attention to the laws governing patents, so that he could attend to the taking out of patent rights personally. In this he was successful and he has patents numbering more than 300, covering every essential part of the gun.

W. D. Condit of Cleveland is Secretary of the company and he is now here with models, drawings, &c., that show the manner in which the gun is mad a and worked. Gen. Wheeler said: "I have entered heart and soul into this project simply because of my desire to have my country in the possession of the most effective weapon on earth. Money is a secondary object. During the Spanish campaign our troops were equipped with rifles that were greatly inferior to those in the possession of the enemy. When I went to the Philippines I found the same state of affairs there. The native troops have rifles that completely discount those of our men. This invention, however, is pronounced revolutionary by the army and navy officers who have witnessed the tests. Of course, the matter of equipping an entire army is one that requires much time and consideration, yet I believe our troops will get the new weapons."

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Nov. 8.-Sister Superior gnes of the Academy of St. Mary of the Lake was shot by John Lawler, a discharged workman, this morning, the bullet entering the left breast two inches above the heart. The academy was established here three years ago under Roman Catholic direction, Sister Superior Agnes coming from Phillipsburg to take charge of the work, with several associate nuns. Lawler had been employed by them at Phillipsburg and came along, acting as janitor and man of all work. He was well liked, except for occasional absences from duty, when it was apparent that he had been drinking.

On Wednesday he returned from a protracted spree, and the sister superior paid him off and discharged him. He used threatening language, but finally went away. Last evening he called at frequent intervals and demanded to see the superior, who refused to receive him. He asked where her room was, threatened to "see her or die," and so alarmed the inmates of the house that a watchman was installed for the night. This morning Lawler called again, was apparently sober and ashamed. He said he wanted to see Sister Agnes and ask her forgiveness before leaving the place. Witnesses might be present, he said. Accordingly she came down with two of her associates and met him in the reception hall, where he asked her pardon for all offences. She spoke to him pleasantly and wished him well, and after shaking hands turned to pass through an adjoining room upstairs. He followed a few steps and the sisters uneasily followed him. He then asked for a moments' private interview and as Sister Agnes and fired. The sister superior fled upstairs, while the two sisters flung them-selves on the man, who tried to follow her. One of them attempted to secure the revolver, but was thrown off with a badly

Meanwhile Sister Agnes went down the back stairway and escaped to the Florence, a hotel next door. Lawler raged through the rooms in search of her, and a paperhanger who attempted to get the revolver away from him was warned to keep his distance, as there were four more cart-ridges in readiness. After a time Lawler left the house and went to his room in a cottage near by, unmindful of the crowd which had gathered. Officer Crane soon arrived and arrested him without resistance. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Searing, who committed him to the jail at Toms River for thirty days on a charge

Searing, who committed him to the jail at Toms River for thirty days on a charge of disorderly conduct and carrying concealed weapons. The graver charge will be lodged when the extent of the sister superior's injuries are known.

The sister remains at the Florence and, though much shaken by the shock, is comfortable. Dr. C. L. Lindley extracted the bullet from behind the shoulder within an hour of the attack. Lawler is a small, dark man of 25, with smooth face and misshapen nose. He has no family and nothing can be learned of his antecedents.

on Monday, when Dr. Tull will repeat the story he told Coroner Banning Thursday Miles an Rour-Finished in S Years. The commission appointed by the Apnight. The latter said yesterday that he was satisfied that the discharge of the gun ellate Division of the Supreme Court in was accidental. There were no witnesses Brooklyn to consider the advisability of a tunnel under the Fast River, from Manof the shooting, but several physicians, including Dr. Nichols, head of the woman's hattan to Brooklyn, had a meeting in the hospital, where both doctors were, for a time rooms of the Manufacturers' Association, 189 Montague street, yesterday. The Commissioners representing Manhattan are Thomas C. T. Crain, Theron for his character. Dr. Tull, although comparatively a young man, has achieved G. Strong and Henry Winthrop Gray.

John DeWitt Warner questioned Chief Engineer William B. Parsons regarding the details of the proposed tunnel and Mr. Parsons said there would be six stations on the route as follows: In Manhattan at Fulton street, Wall street and on Bowling Green near Pearl street; in Brooklyn, at the Borough Hall, Fulton street, and at Flatbush and Atlantic avenues, trains being operated from the City Hall in Manhattan to the Brooklyn terminal at Flatbush and Atlantic avenues. About 480 cars, or eight each minute would be operated. These cars would accommodate 100 passengers each, although the seating capacity of each would be but forty-eight. The speed would range from fourteen to twenty miles an hour, according to the distances between stations, at which only ten seconds would be allowed for stops.

resterday, had taken a strong interest in him.

Dr. Tull who was placed under the nominal bond of $1,000 on a charge of manslaughter after the shooting, was at his sanitarium at 119 West Eightieth street, vesterday. In explaining the accident he said that the guns were not hammerless. He and Dr. Spalter, he said, went out last Sunday, but were not able to bag any ducks. They went out again Thursday as they had promised to give a duck supper to their friends to-night.

"I always steered the launch on these excursions," he said "The steering wheel is in the bow and just as we noticed a flock of ducks the rope connecting it with the rudder got stuck near the wheel. My gun was a better one than Dr. Spalter's and when I saw that my hands were full with steering I passed it back to him and told him to use it. I believe that I had the hammer down and the only way I can account for the discharge of the gun is that the hammer must have hit with force against something in the boat."

Yesterday Dr. Spalter's grandfather and uncle arrived here from Keene, N. H., and last night started back with the body. Mr. Morse, Dr. Spalter's grandfather, called on Dr. Tull and also communicated with Coroner Banning. He said that possibly the young man's father might come on to the inquest but he did not think it likely. He was convinced, he said, that it was an accident. The tunnel system, Mr. Parsons said, would include a route from the City Hall to a loop at Battery Park. The tunnel would be constructed under the East River to the foot of Joralemon street. Bellamy was Kohnspeyer's butler. It is charged that in his employer's absence on a Continental trip he stole a quantity of jewels from a safe and fled to this country. Here he was employed as a butler by C. Weigenfeld of 3 East Forty-seventh street. Last December he was arrested for stealing a lot of silverware from Mr. Weigenfeld. In January, 1901, he pleaded guilty in Special Sessions and was sentenced to a year's imprisonment on Blackwell's Island. This term, counting off two months' commutation for good behavior, was up last Thursday. Thursday.
The London police traced Bellamy to this city and two months ago he was found on Blackwell's Island and identified. To Commissioner Alexander yesterday he admitted his identity and agreed to return to England for trial.

BRITISH CONSUL'S REPLY

In Suit Brought Against Him by Representative. NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 8 .- Arthur G. Van Sittart, the British Consul at New Orleans, against whom a suit for $20,000 damages was brought by Gen. Pearson, on the ground that Van Sittart accused and then he used gentle force in carrying | Pearson of having instigated the dynamite explosion which blew up the British mule transport Mechanician, has replied to the suit, declaring that the American courts have no jurisdiction over him, as silk, as well as five gold pins, some em- he has only an official residence in this country as Consul and does not reside here permanently, and that his communication to the police charging Pearson with the explosion was a privileged one, which he, as Consul of the United Kingdom, had a right to make.

Pearson's suit is confessedly for the purpose of getting the British-Boer war before the United States courts in some way. He first brought suit to have the shipment of mules to South Africa by the British War Department prohibited, but was thrown out of court on the question of jurisdiction.

He Robbed in This Country, Too-Stole Found Dead in Her Bathroom, Her Skull Fractured -Subject to Fainting.

Mrs. Kathleen Gertrude White, wife of A. S. White, the President of the Nationa Salt Company, was found dead yesterday in the bathroom adjoining her bedroom arrested by Deputy United States Marshal in her house at 329 West Eighty-sixth street. Her death was caused by a fall was subject to fainting fits and it is supposed that she suddenly became dizzy and fell before she could grasp any support, her head striking the sharp edge of the porcelain bathtub.

Mr. White has been in Chicago for sev-Mr. White has been in Chicago for sereral days, and in his absence Mrs. White has occupied a bedroom at the rear of the second floor, back of which is the bathroom in which her body was found. There is only one other room on this floor, and this was occupied last night by Mrs. White's little daughter and a nurse. The rest of the household, comprising the maids, butler and other servants, were in another part of the house, and heard no noise in the night.

Mrs. White was seen in her bedroom at midnight and she then seemed as well as usual. At 9 o'clock, yesterday morning, the butler, as usual, went to Mrs. White's room to receive instructions for the day.

After knocking repeatedly and receiving After knocking repeatedly and receiving no response he burst the door open and found the bedroom unoccupied. Through the open bathroom door, however, Mrs. White was visible, lying dead in the tiled floor of the bathroom close beside the bathtub.

floor of the bathroom close beside the bathtub.

Dr. A. Zeh, the family physician, was summoned. After examining Mrs. White he said that in all probability she had died instantly of a fractured skull. He thought that it was probable that she had fallen in one of her fainting spells.

Mrs. White was 29 years old. She was formerly Miss Rigney, the daughter of the Brooklyn sugar refiner. She was married to Mr. White nine years ago and they had one child.

Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon examin the body yesterday afternoon and certified that death was due to accident.

VERDICT DOESN'T FREE HER. Mrs. Chartrand Will Be Held for Action by the Grand Jury.

Assistant Prosecutor George T. Vickers of Hudson county said at the Court House in Jersey City yesterday that the papers in the case against Mrs. Vencedora Elsie Chartrand of Hoboken, who is accused of causing the death of her husband, John Chartrand, will be presented to the Grand

Chartrand, will be presented to the Grand Jury notwithstanding the verdict of the Coroner's jury Thursday night that the shooting was accidental

"The woman is held on the police charge of murder," said Mr. Vickers, "and there is no doubt that an indictment will be found.
The verdict of the Coroner's jury would be admissible as evidence for the defendant at the trial and it might be used by counsel in making application for the woman's release on ball. I can not say whether the court would accept ball in whether the court would accept bail in Mrs. Chartrand is a prisoner in the Hudson dounty jail.

The police hint that within the next few days they will have evidence to show that there was a woman in the case to whom there was a woman in the case to whom there was a woman in the case to whom Chartrand paid much attention, and of whom his wife was jealous Detective Sergeant Nelson admitted yesterday that the woman in question had left Hoboken only two days before the shooting and that she was now living on the apper West Side in this city. He attaches much importance to this feature of the case showing a motive for the killing.
